LIPID BASED DRUG DELIVERY SYSTEMS FOR PROTEINS

Book Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: VDM Verlag Dr. Müller | Physical stability of proteins at the oil-water interface | Proteins are pharmaceuticals with high specificity and activity at relatively low concentrations, but to fully exploit their potential, an increased effort has been put into the research and development of suitable drug delivery concepts. The success of a protein depends on the development of a formulation that maintains the native protein structure and activity during preparation of the delivery system. A joint...
